Dear Colleague:

INTRODUCING THE OJP GRANTS 2K SYSTEM

This solicitation has been created using the new Grants 2 K System that incorporates user friendly technologies into our grant management process in order to better serve you, our customers. Let me take this occasion to lay out our blueprint for the new system. Access through the Internet to Office of Justice Programs solicitations is the first step in our goal to produce a fully interactive system dedicated to expediting and streamlining the receipt, review, and processing of grant applications. Printed copies of OJP solicitations will continue to be available on request to the cognizant OJP program office.

The next step, to be completed in early Calendar Year 1999, will enable users to submit applications for grants directly to OJP electronically for these solicitations. Receipt of an application will enable program staff to initiate the funding decision process, better manage the internal review sequence, and provide timely award notification to grantees. Soon- to-be-completed features of the new system will enable grantees to request payments and to submit progress, subgrant and financial reports electronically.

The Grants 2 K System will be administered by the Office of Justice Programs as a pilot project so that we can see how it works over the course of the FY 1999 funding cycle. The OJP Program Offices piloting the new system are:

- Violence Against Women Grants Office
- Drug Courts Program Office
- Corrections Program Office
- Executive Office for Weed and Seed
- Office for State and Local Domestic Preparedness Support

We invite you to visit the OJP Internet home page at www.ojp.usdoj.gov for additional information concerning the Grants 2 K System.

Foreword

In little more than four years, the landmark Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) has transformed our country's response to violence against women. Communities across the country have taken up the challenge to work together to end violence against women. VAWA has fundamentally changed the way justice agencies work within their respective organizations, with each other, and with private, nonprofit victim service providers and victim advocates.

Just as the authors of VAWA envisioned, the various components of the tribal justice system--police, prosecutors, judges, pre-trial service providers, court administrators, and probation and parole officers--are, in many cases for the first time, collaborating with each other and with victim advocates to develop and implement coordinated, multidisciplinary responses to combat and prevent violence against women. With funds authorized through VAWA, tribal communities across the country have invested in programs to:

- # provide direct services to adult Native women victimized by domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking;
- # train tribal law enforcement officers, prosecutors, and judges about the intricacies of cases involving violence against women and effective responses that are sensitive to the needs and safety of victims while holding perpetrators responsible for their crimes;
- # develop policies and protocols in tribal police departments and prosecutors' offices to enhance their responsiveness to crimes of violence against women; and
- # develop and support specialized units within the tribal justice system's response.

These initial investments are, however, a small down payment. Much work still remains to be done. As tribal policymakers continue to develop, implement, and refine their efforts to address violence against women, they must look beyond traditional partners and draw upon the resources of the entire community. The Office of Justice Programs is committed to supporting efforts by tribal communities to think creatively and develop innovative ideas for preventing, detecting, and ending violence against women and making this country a safe place for everyone.

INTRODUCTION

The STOP (Services•Training•Officers•Prosecutors) Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grant Program implements certain provisions of the Violence Against Women Act pursuant to Sections 2001 through 2006 of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended by Title IV, Section 40121 of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, Public Law 103-322. This application kit provides program and application guidelines for FY 1999 grant awards to be administered by the Violence Against Women Grants Office (VAWGO), Office of Justice Programs (OJP), U.S. Department of Justice.

The primary purpose of the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grants Program, hereinafter referred to as the Program, is to reduce violent crimes against Indian women. The Program provides Federal financial assistance to Federally recognized Indian tribal governments to develop and strengthen the response of tribal justice systems to violence committed against Indian women. The Program encourages tribal governments both to develop and implement effective strategies tailored to address their unique circumstances in preventing and responding to violent crimes against Indian women, and to develop and enhance services provided to Indian women who are victims of violent crimes.

The Violence Against Women Act of 1994, hereinafter referred to as the Act, reflects a firm commitment toward working to change the criminal justice system's response to violence that occurs when any woman is threatened, physically and/or sexually assaulted, or stalked by someone with whom she has or has had an intimate relationship, with whom she was previously acquainted, or who is a stranger. The Act requires that 4 percent of the amount appropriated each year for the STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grant Program be available to Indian tribal governments.

For FY 1999, Congress appropriated $206.750 million for the STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grant Program, of which $8.2 million is allocated to the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grants Program. A portion of the funds provided under this Program has been set aside to provide technical assistance to tribal grantees.

The goal of this Program is to encourage tribal governments to develop and strengthen the tribal justice system's response to violence against Indian women and to improve services to Indian women who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. The Assistant Attorney General, Office of Justice Programs (OJP), is authorized to award discretionary grants to develop and strengthen tribal justice system strategies to address violence against Indian women, and to develop and strengthen victim services in such cases.

BACKGROUND

Historically, the criminal justice system treated domestic violence as a private, family matter. Only in the past two decades has spouse abuse and partner violence been acknowledged as a crime requiring the full force and attention of the criminal justice system. As a result of the awareness of the incidence of the abuse and often murder of women due to domestic violence, advocates for victims of domestic violence worked within their own communities to ensure that abused women were accorded the same legal protections as other crime victims. Advocates – and their partners in the criminal justice system – sought vigorous enforcement of existing laws and enactment of new, stronger laws to address violence against women.

Enhancing the safety of Native women is part of this larger effort to enhance victim safety and offender accountability by supporting the development of zero tolerance to violent crimes committed against women through acts of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking. Native women advocates were actively involved in the reform efforts from the beginning. Through their participation and leadership national and statewide coalitions against domestic violence and sexual assault were established, in addition to the first Native women's shelter program in Indian Country.

Nationally, approximately 4 million women are abused in their homes each year. It is reported that every 15 seconds a woman is severely battered. American women are raped and/or physically assaulted primarily by intimate partners (76%), such as a current or former husband, co-habiting partner or date.¹ Most violence perpetrated against women is perpetrated by males. Of adult women reporting rape and/or physical assault, 93% were assaulted by a male.²

Research indicates that Native Americans are at significantly greater risk of violence than other Americans.³ One study found the rate of homicide for American Indians/Alaska Natives was approximately two times greater than the national rates in the United States.⁴

Between 1988 and 1991, homicide was the third leading cause of death for American Indians.⁵ Of Native women murdered, 31% were killed by a family member, 44% were murdered by an acquaintance or someone they knew; only 4% were murdered by a stranger.⁶

Nationally, “stalking behavior is not significantly different among racial or ethnic groups...however, it is considerably higher among American Indians and Alaska Natives. The stalking rate is so high against Native women that 17% of them will be stalked during their lifetimes.”⁷

Unfortunately, there are many examples of the barriers Indian women face when confronting domestic violence. American Indian and Alaska Native women and children living on reservations, rancherias and pueblos, or in villages frequently do not have access to telephones, transportation or any other form of emergency services. The response time of law enforcement authorities to victims in remote parts of Indian country can be several days. Due to the inadequate number and capacity of jails, many tribal law enforcement officers cannot take perpetrators into custody. Even if they are prosecuted and convicted, many abusers are sentenced only to probation, with no treatment to control their violent behavior or jail time. Furthermore, many Indian Nations with law enforcement authority do not have tribal codes defining domestic violence as criminal conduct. Indian women residing in communities without a domestic violence code frequently do not report these incidents to law enforcement because of the perception that the justice system cannot prevent future violent attacks. The combination of geographic isolation, lack of emergency services, and unfamiliarity with the justice system leaves many women and children without any means of accessing assistance.

As of the end of fiscal year 1998, 238 tribal communities have received funds to implement their strategies to combat violence against Native women. Funding supports initiatives on reservations, pueblos and rancherias, and in Alaska Native villages. Tribal justice systems' implementation of the Violence Against Women Act takes the form of increased communication and coordination between tribes and their neighboring jurisdictions to enhance the safety of native women and hold accountable perpetrators of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking. Many of the programs provide direct services to Native women who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking. These tribes have been actively creating or updating their tribal codes for effective prosecution; developing policies, protocols and procedures for tribal law enforcement and prosecution; implementing a network of communication through technological enhancements within the tribal justice system so that tribal law enforcement officers can effectively respond to calls from victims of intimate partner violence, and ensuring that tribal criminal justice professionals receive specialized training to enhance their understanding of the complex dynamics of violence against women.

STOP
GRANT PROGRAM

In the past four years, there have been significant changes in the approaches tribes are taking to reduce violence against Native women.

The range of challenges tribes have met include developing a meaningful collaboration among tribal justice system components that had never worked together to address violence against Native women; creating specialized criminal justice systems units in law enforcement agencies and prosecutor's officers to ensure perpetrators accountability; establish alliances with non-Native criminal justice system agencies to ensure that women, Native and non-Native alike, are safe; and understanding the need for community accountability and reformation of the tribal justice system.

In FY 1999, the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grant Program will add the planning grant feature for new tribal applicants. Planning grants are available to tribes that (1) are not yet in a position to offer direct services to adult Native women victimized by domestic violence, sexual assault and/or stalking, and/or (2) have developed programs to provide services to Native women and wish to coordinate the tribal justice system's resources to address violence against Native women in their community. Implementation grants are available to new tribal applicants that are poised to offer services but have never received services from this program

As in the past, continuation grants are available to tribes that will continue to implement on-going activities and/or expand activities to activities, such as, develop regional collaborative partnerships with other tribes and/or local non-Native communities located on or near the tribal service area.

Applicants in FY 1999 are expected to describe how the program strategy and purposes described on pages 6 -10 of this application kit will be implemented in their respective communities that will keep Native women safe and hold perpetrators accountable.

An individual tribe may apply for only one type of grant (planning, implementation, or expansion) through this Program in FY1999.

PROGRAM STRATEGY

A Coordinated and Integrated Partnership. This Program recognizes that reducing violence against women and enhancing the safety of Native women necessitate the coordination of the policies and protocols of all tribal justice system components and community service providers. The Program therefore requires a coordinated and integrated approach. For the purposes of this Program, a coordinated and integrated approach entails a partnership between the components of the tribal justice system responsible for handling cases involving violent crimes committed against Indian women and the nonprofit, non-governmental service providers who assist Indian women who have been victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. If a nonprofit, non-governmental service provider does not exist in the community, tribal governments must consult and coordinate with the tribal government's victim service program.

A coordinated community response to violent crimes committed against adult Native women can only be achieved when all partners enter into a formal, respectful collaboration. All parties need to acknowledge that each agency or organization has a special function, a particular authority, and valuable services that it brings to the joint effort. Participants in respectful collaborations bring separate organizations into a new structure with full commitment to a common mission. Such relationships require comprehensive planning and well-defined channels of communication at all levels. The collaborative partners should recognize the potential imbalance of power that may arise, particularly when high level appointed or elected governmental officials (or their designees) are asked to participate as equals with representatives from the community, such as advocates affiliated with non-profit, non-governmental victim services programs. In the end, all partners should jointly secure the resources and share the results and rewards.

Mandatory Grant Allocation Formula: To ensure the development of a coordinated approach, the Violence Against Women Act requires that at least 25 percent of the total grant award be allocated respectively to law enforcement, prosecution, and nonprofit, non-governmental victim services programs.

Law Enforcement 25%	Prosecution 25%
Victim Services 25%	Discretionary 25%

Tribal governments that do not have law enforcement or prosecution as defined below are not required to allocate funds to these areas.

In 1996, the Oglala Sioux Nation used its law enforcement allocation to train tribal police officers and hire specialized domestic violence probation officers to monitor perpetrators' compliance with the conditions of their probation orders. These efforts resulted in 590 arrests for spousal abuse in 1996 alone.

Chugachmiut in south central Alaska is using grant funds to train and equip two Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner / Sexual Assault Response Teams comprised of a nurse examiner, an advocate, and a police officer. The nurse examiner conducts the physical examination of a victim and collects forensic evidence, while the advocate is available to support the woman through the examination and the criminal process. The team enhances the continuity of care for women who have been sexually assaulted, thus strengthening the response of the criminal justice system to such cases.

The White Mountain Apache Tribe of Arizona uses its prosecution allocation to support an advocate who works within its prosecutor's office to assist and support victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. The advocate enhances the prosecution of violent crimes against women by informing victims about the status of their cases, advocating on their behalf, and assisting in identifying and designing prosecution strategies that will prevent future violent attacks.

LAW ENFORCEMENT — For the purposes of this Program, law enforcement is defined as a tribal agency charged with policing functions, including any of its component bureaus (such as governmental victim services programs), but not including volunteer or BIA law enforcement officers. Although BIA officers and volunteers do not meet the definition of law enforcement, tribes are encouraged to include them in project planning, implementation, and evaluation efforts, as well as in any training offered, if appropriate. Allowable purposes for this portion of the award include, but are not limited to, training for law enforcement officers, development of law enforcement protocols for handling domestic violence cases, and the creation of specialized units in law enforcement agencies to respond to domestic violence and/or sexual assault cases.

VICTIM SERVICES — For the purposes of this Program, victim services is defined as a nonprofit native organization not affiliated with tribal government but within the jurisdiction or service area of the tribal government that assists domestic violence or sexual assault victims. Where nonprofit, non-governmental victim services do not exist within the jurisdiction or service area of the tribal government, 25 % of the programmatic funds may be allocated to a tribal government victim services agency. Regardless of the type of victim services program, 25% of the funds must be allocated to services for women victims of violence. To meet the victim services allocation requirement of the Program, tribal grantees have used grant funds to support battered women's shelters, such as the White Buffalo Calf Women's Shelter located on the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota, the Osage Counseling Center Shelter located on the Osage Nation Reservation in Oklahoma, and the Cangleska Shelter located on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota.

PROSECUTION — For the purposes of this Program, prosecution is defined as any tribal office or agency charged with direct responsibility for prosecuting criminal offenders, not including contracted prosecutorial services or courts that serve a prosecutorial function. Allowable purposes for this portion of the award include, but are not limited to, training for tribal prosecutors on domestic violence and sexual assault, and hiring prosecutors and/or support staff to handle domestic violence and/or sexual assault cases.

DISCRETIONARY — Tribal governments may use the discretionary portion of a grant award (i.e., the 25% that is not designated specifically for law enforcement, prosecution, or victim services) to address any or a combination of the above purposes, as well as court-based initiatives (e.g., training for tribal court judges and personnel and/or the development and implementation of judicial procedures or enhancement of criminal sanctions) and probation services and supervision. Batterer re-education/intervention programs also may be supported through the discretionary portion of a grant award; however, these programs must be part of a graduated range of sanctions that use the coercive power of the tribal justice system to hold abusers accountable for their criminal actions and for changing their behavior. For instance, a tribal court judge could sentence a batterer to supervised probation with a condition that he complete a 26-week batterer's program.

The penalties would become more severe if the batterer fails to comply with the court's order.

PROJECT PRODUCTS

The Program offers an opportunity to learn about promising approaches and practices utilized by various tribal justice systems and Indian victim services programs in preventing and assisting Indian women victimized by violent crimes. Currently there are few resource materials describing programs and approaches designed specifically to address violence against Indian women. The Program therefore requires tribal governments that receive grants to develop a product that can be shared with other tribal governments. The products generated through the Program will become part of a package of resource materials available to tribal governments participating in the Program.

SCOPE OF PROGRAM

Authorized Program Purposes. Tribal governments may use grant funds for the following purposes:

- ☐ training tribal law enforcement officers and prosecutors to identify and respond more effectively to violence against Indian women, including sexual assault and domestic violence;
- ☐ developing, training, or expanding specialized units of tribal law enforcement officers and prosecutors that target violence against women, including sexual assault and domestic violence;
- ☐ strengthening tribal courts' adjudication of violence against women through developing, training and expanding tribal court judicial procedures to protect women abused by an intimate partner, enhancing the range of sanctions applied to a batterer in a criminal case and strengthening the probation department's ability to monitor convicted batterers;
- ☐ developing and implementing more effective police and prosecution policies, protocols, orders, and services specifically dedicated to preventing, identifying, and responding to violence against Indian women, including sexual assault and domestic violence;
- ☐ developing, installing, or expanding data collection and communication systems, including computerized systems that link tribal police, prosecutors, and courts within the tribe, to other tribes or states, or that are designed to identify and track arrests, protection orders, violations of protection orders, prosecutions, and convictions for violent crimes against women, including sexual assault and domestic violence;
- ☐ developing, enlarging, or strengthening victim service programs designed to assist adult Indian women, including sexual assault and domestic violence programs; developing or improving delivery of victim services to language minorities and the disabled; providing specialized domestic violence court advocates; and increasing reporting and reducing attrition rates for cases involving violent crimes against Indian women, including sexual assault and domestic violence; and ☐ developing, enlarging, or strengthening programs that address the crime of stalking committed against Indian women.

Grant funds may not be used to:

☐ support projects that do not enhance the safety of women or address violence against Indian women;

☐ pay for forensic medical examinations for victims of sexual assault;

☐ reimburse victims for out-of-pocket costs of forensic medical examinations;

☐ replace funds that the tribal government already is obligated or funded to pay;

☐ support juvenile justice and delinquency prevention programs;

☐ support chemical dependency or alcohol abuse programs that are not an integral part of batterer intervention programs; or

☐ support services to children.⁸

Activities That May Compromise Victim Safety. Victim-centered programming is the cornerstone of a coordinated community response. Experience has shown that certain practices compromise victim safety rather than enhance it. For example, forcing a battered woman to testify against her abusive partner may place her at greater risk of continuing or escalating violence. Some responses by the legal system may minimize or trivialize the offender's criminal behavior. Accordingly, consistent with the goals of assuring victim safety and holding perpetrators of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking accountable, applicants are discouraged from proposing any of the activities listed below:

☐ Offering perpetrators the option of entering pre-trial diversion programs. Diversion programs and alternative dispositions can send a message to victims and perpetrators that partner abuse is a less serious crime than comparable crimes involving non-intimates. These programs also become problematic when they are of a relatively short duration, do not require that the offender's behavior be monitored regularly, or are used merely as a means of managing the docket rather than serving the interests of justice.

⁸ Tribal governments may recognize a need to allocate a combination of discretionary and victim services funds to enhance victim services with programming for children; however, children's services supported with Program funds must show an inextricable link and be the direct result of providing services for a woman. For example, Program funds may support the expansion of battered women's shelter services to include programs for children of the battered women residing in the shelter. Program funds may not be used to support services that focus exclusively on children or to develop sexual assault or domestic violence prevention curricula for schools.

❑ Mediation or counseling for couples as a systematic response to domestic violence. Mediation and couples counseling imply that both parties are responsible for the violent behavior of the perpetrator or primary aggressor. It is wholly inappropriate to sanction the victim or hold her equally accountable for the offender's behavior. Furthermore, mediation requires two parties with equal power to voluntarily reach an agreement about the issue at hand. In abusive relationships, the power and control exercised by batterers over time leaves victims in a state of constant fear, dependency, and weakness. This power imbalance makes it nearly impossible for any agreement between the two parties to be voluntary.

❑ Batterer treatment programs that do not use the coercive power of the tribal justice system to hold batterers accountable for their behavior. Batterer re-education programs funded through the Program must be part of a graduated range of sanctions that uses the coercive power of the tribal justice system to hold abusers accountable for their criminal actions and for changing their behavior. Above all, victim safety must be a priority; for that to occur, batterers must take responsibility and be accountable for their violence. Programs that focus only on controlling anger and impulses, addressing alcohol and drug abuse, managing emotions, developing communication skills and dealing with stress are not designed to hold batterers to this level of accountability.

❑ Procedures that would force battered women to testify against their abusers or impose other sanctions on them. When handling domestic violence cases, police officers' and prosecutors' decisions must be grounded in ensuring that the victim is safe. To that end, criminal justice professionals should work closely with victims to help guide decisions. While there are certainly instances in which prosecutors should proceed without the testimony of victims, battered women should always be consulted because they are in the best position to judge the dangerousness of the situation.

PROGRAM ELIGIBILITY

Eligible Applicants. Federally recognized Indian tribal governments are eligible to apply for grants to address violence against Indian women through this Program. (See DEFINITION of Indian Tribe on page 49.) In reaffirming the United States' unique relationship with Native American tribal governments, Executive and Justice Department Policy requires the Office of Justice Programs to work on a government-to-government basis with Indian Tribes.⁹

Consortium Grantees. Tribes participating in the services provided by a currently funded consortium are eligible to apply for funding through this Program. Any organized group or community of Indians or a consortium representing several Indian tribal governments that requests funding must submit a tribal resolution from each constituent tribal government that would participate in the activities outlined in the application.

Applicants must demonstrate that the proposed project was developed in consultation with non-profit, non-governmental Indian victim services programs, including sexual assault and domestic violence victim services providers, to the extent that they exist, or with governmental victim services or women in the community to be served, and that such agencies or individuals will participate in the development and execution of the implementation plan.

The tribal governments and consortia listed on page 28 of this application kit are eligible to apply for continuation funding in FY 1999. Tribal governments and consortia that have not previously received funding through this program are eligible to apply for planning and implementation grants.

Types of Applicants. In FY 1999, OJP's Violence Against Women Grants Office will accept applications for the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grant Program from both new applicants and current grantees.

New Applicants. New applicants include any Federally recognized Indian tribal government or consortium representing tribal governments that is not currently receiving funds through this Program.

Current Grantees. Current grantees include Federally recognized tribal governments or consortia representing tribal governments that received an award through this Program in FY 1995 and/or 1997. For a list of current grantees eligible for continuation funds, see the chart on page 28.

Certification of Eligibility. Tribal governments must certify compliance with the statutory eligibility requirements of the Violence Against Women Act, which requires tribal governments to pay all out-of-pocket costs of forensic medical examinations for sexual assault victims and, where applicable, the filing and service fees for domestic violence cases. Appendix C contains the Certification of Compliance with the Statutory Eligibility Requirements of the ⁹ President's Memorandum on Relations with Tribal Governments, April 29, 1994, 3 C.F.R. 1007 (1995) and Department of Justice Policy on Indian Sovereignty and Government-to-Government Relations, 61 Fed. Reg. 29424 (June 1, 1995).

Violence Against Women Act for Tribal Governments that each Indian tribe must sign and submit to demonstrate its compliance with these requirements. Applications requesting funding must also demonstrate that:

- ☐ the funds requested will be used for one or more of the purposes described previously in the section entitled “Program Requirements”;
- ☐ the proposed project was developed in consultation and coordination with nonprofit, non-governmental Indian victim services programs, including sexual assault and domestic violence victim services providers, to the extent that they exist, or with governmental victim services programs or women in the community to be served, and that such agencies or individuals will participate in the development and execution of the implementation plan;
- ☐ tribal governments with law enforcement and/or prosecution will allocate at least 25% of the amount requested, without duplication, to each of the following three areas: law enforcement, prosecution, and victim services;
- ☐ tribal governments without law enforcement and/or prosecution will allocate at least 25% of the amount requested to nonprofit, non-governmental or tribal victim services designed to assist Indian women who are victims of violent crimes; and
- ☐ Federal funds received through this Program will be used to supplement—not supplant—non-Federal funds that would otherwise be available for activities funded through this Program.

Forensic Medical Examination Payment Requirements for Victims for Sexual Assault. (See DEFINITION of forensic medical examination on page 49). An Indian tribe is in compliance with the forensic medical examination payment requirement if the tribal government pays the full out-of-pocket costs of forensic medical examinations for victims of sexual assault. Full out-of-pocket costs means any expense that may be charged to a victim in connection with a forensic examination for the purpose of gathering evidence of a sexual assault (e.g., the full cost of the examination or a fee established by the physician or facility conducting the examination). For individuals covered by insurance, full out-of-pocket costs means any costs the insurance does not pay. A tribal government or another entity must:

- ☐ provide such examinations to victims free of charge;
- ☐ arrange for victims to obtain such examinations free of charge; or
- ☐ reimburse victims for the cost of examinations if:
 - ☐ the reimbursement covers the full out-of-pocket costs of such examinations, without any deductible requirement or maximum limit on the amount of reimbursement;
 - ☐ the governmental entity permits victims to apply for reimbursement for up to one year from the date of the examination;

☐ the governmental entity provides reimbursement to the victim not later than 90 days after written notification of the victim's expense; and

☐ the governmental entity provides verbal information at the time of the examination to all victims, including victims with limited or no English proficiency or those whose primary language is not written, regarding procedures to obtain reimbursement.

Filing Costs for Criminal Charges. Additionally, a tribal government must certify that its laws, policies, and practices do not require, in connection with the prosecution of any misdemeanor or felony domestic violence offense, that an abused person bear the costs associated with filing criminal charges against a domestic violence offender or the costs associated with the issuance or service of a warrant, protection order, or witness subpoena.

AVAILABILITY

The cognizant Federal agency and fiscal year for the tribal government should be listed in Block 11 of the form. A sample of a completed SF-424 is included in Appendix A. An Indian tribal government's fiscal year is its 12-month accounting period.

PLANNING GRANTS

Planning grants are intended for tribes that wish to establish a coordinated community response to violence against Native women. Planning grants will be awarded in amounts up to $50,000 for a period of 12 months.

Purpose and Goals. Planning grants are designed to enable grantees to coordinate tribal justice components, including victim services, and develop a coordinated strategy based on victim-centered programming. Planning grant activities may include establishing a tribal Violence Against Indian Women Task Force composed of representatives of the tribal justice components, victim service providers, and/or women in the community; training and education for tribal justice practitioners; creating or revising a violence against Indian women code; developing policies, protocols and procedures for tribal justice components; and development of court sanctions. Planning grants are limited in scope and will not necessarily lead to subsequent Program funding to implement the project that results from the planning effort. The outcome of the planning process, however, should enable grantees to develop a sufficient strategy and cost analysis to justify a funding request to other potential funding sources. Technical assistance will be provided to assist grant recipients with their planning processes. Grant recipients will be required to carry out specific activities to aid the planning process, i.e., attendance at OJP-mandated training sessions and designating the individuals responsible for representing their agency in the planning process.

Application Contents. A fully executed application must include the following:

1. Program Narrative. The Program Narrative, which may not exceed 10 double-spaced typed pages using 12 point type and must be printed on one side of 8½ x 11 inch paper, must include the following:

☐ Abstract (not to exceed 1 page) — The abstract should present a summary of the proposed project and how it fits into the tribal government's overall strategy to reduce violent crimes committed against Indian women.

☐ Information about the Tribe (not to exceed 1 page) — Relevant historical information, land base within the jurisdiction of the tribe, number of tribal members and population living within the Indian community, population of women to be served, and demographic characteristics of the women to be served. A description of the problems the tribal government faces with respect to violence against women, specifically domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. A description of current law enforcement, prosecution, and victim services efforts to address battering and sexual assault of Indian women that also identifies the current sources of funding and explains how this grant would enhance or build on, rather than duplicate, existing programs.

☐ Description of Proposed Activities (not to exceed 6 pages) — A description of the activities the tribe intends to support with grant funds. Activities must focus on reducing violence against or enhancing the safety of Indian women.

OJP recognizes that the justice system of each tribal government is distinct. Tribes are therefore encouraged to support activities designed to strengthen their specific systems of justice for addressing violent crimes against women. Tribal governments that have not previously addressed violence against women, specifically domestic violence or sexual assault, may wish to consider emphasizing training and education for tribal justice practitioners on domestic violence and sexual assault; the establishment of minimum training requirements for law enforcement officers, prosecutors and victim advocates; and/or the creation or revision of a domestic violence code.

☐ A description of the source of the non-Federal match and how it will be used.

☐ A description of the tribal agency that will administer the funds.

☐ If the application is submitted on behalf of a tribal consortium, a description of the role and responsibilities of each member tribe, including which tribe will be fiscally and programmatically responsible for the grant. Resolutions from the member tribes demonstrating support for the project(s) must be submitted with the application.

☐ Project Products (not to exceed 1 page) — The primary product of planning grants will be an implementation plan. The implementation plan should be developed through deliberative consultation and coordination with a broad range of participants providing services to or handling cases involving domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking, including tribal law enforcement officers; prosecutors; judges; and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services providers. Where nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs do not exist, the tribal government must consult with tribal governmental victim services programs. A tribe that does not have a victim services organization located within the community may meet this requirement by inviting women in the community to meetings to discuss the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Program and the needs of women who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking. Women in the community can provide valuable information about domestic violence and sexual assault within the tribe and recommend strategies to enhance the safety of women victimized by batterers and/or sexual assailants. The women consulted should describe their anticipated participation in the planning process and development of the implementation plan in a letter attached to the application.

A description of the additional product(s) to be developed by the project (e.g., code development, training materials, protocols, or handbooks), including when they will be submitted to OJP. The type(s) of product(s) developed will depend on the nature of the project. For example, a planning grant to establish a coordinated community response might include revision of the tribal code to include a provision for crimes against women, development of protocols for the tribal justice system agencies and victim services to follow when a woman is battered, and/or training for the tribal justice system practitioners.

☐ Staffing Plan (not to exceed 1 page) — A description of the staffing needed to support the proposed planning process, job descriptions outlining the responsibilities of each proposed staff position, and the qualifications that would be required of key staff conducting and managing the process, particularly training and experience in addressing or responding to violence against Indian women.

☐ Project Partners (not to exceed 1 page) — a list of individual(s) and agencies involved in the planning process representing various components of tribal justice systems and the native community.

2. Letters From Victim Services Programs — Documentation from nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs describing their participation in developing the application and their commitment to participate in developing the implementation plan. If victim services programs do not exist, a letter to this effect from women in the community to be served must be submitted with the application.

3. Memorandum of Understanding — Each application must include, as an attachment, a Memorandum of Understanding created and signed by the chief executive officers of all criminal justice agencies and victim services programs (or women in the community to be served) participating in the development of the implementation plan. The Memorandum of Understanding must:

☐ provide a brief history of the collaborative relationship among the partners, including when and under what circumstances the relationship began and when each partner entered into the relationship;

☐ specify the extent of each party's participation in developing the application;

☐ clearly state the roles and responsibilities each organization or agency would assume to ensure the development of a meaningful implementation plan;

☐ identify the representatives of the team who would be responsible for planning, developing and implementing project activities, and describe how they would work together and with project staff;

☐ indicate approval of the proposed project budget by all signing parties; and

☐ describe the resources each partner would contribute to the project, either through time, in-kind contributions, or grant funds (for example, office space, project staff, training, etc.)

Letters of support may not be submitted in lieu of the Memorandum of Understanding.

4. Coordination of Federal Efforts — Applicants must provide the following information as an attachment:

- ☐ other active Federal grant awards (from the Department of Justice or otherwise) already supporting this or related efforts (for a definition of related efforts see DEFINITIONS at page 49);
- ☐ pending application(s) for Federal money for this or related efforts; and
- ☐ how the activities supported by these other Federal grants would be coordinated with the funding sought through this application.

For each source of Federal funding, include the program/project title; the Federal grantor agency; the Federal award amount; and a very brief description of the project purpose. This information is requested to encourage better coordination among Federal agencies in addressing State, local and tribal needs.

5. Budget Detail Worksheet — Estimated costs for planning and implementing the program goals. The budget must be complete, reasonable, and cost-effective in relation to the proposed project activities. The budget should provide the basis for the computation of all project-related costs. It should cover the costs of all components of the project and clearly identify costs attributable to the project evaluation. In addition to a budget, the applicant should include the breakdown of funds for each of the following categories: law enforcement, prosecution, and victim services. A Budget Detail Worksheet has been included in Appendix B. The budget should describe clearly:

- ☐ the proposed amount and uses of grant funds over the grant period;
- ☐ the proposed amount, sources, and uses of non-Federal expenditures over the grant period;
- ☐ an explanation of how the applicant's match will be made; and
- ☐ an explanation of how the amounts of the specific budget items were determined.

Attendance at three training meetings that will be sponsored by the Office of Justice Programs is mandatory for all grant recipients. At least $15,000 must be set aside to pay for the travel costs of five tribal representatives to attend each meeting. A sample travel budget for these costs is included in Appendix B. For Alaska Native Tribal Governments Only: At least $18,000 must be set aside to pay for the travel costs of five representatives of Alaska Native tribal governments to attend OJP-mandated training meetings.

IMPLEMENTATION GRANTS

Implementation grants are available to tribes not currently funded through the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grant Program, but that already provide services as described in this application and wish to establish a coordinated community response to violence against Native women. New implementation grants will be awarded in amounts up to $ 90,000 for a project period of 12 months.

Purpose and Goals. Implementation grants are designed to enable grantees to coordinate tribal criminal justice components, and victim services, and enhance a coordinated strategy based on victim-centered programming. Implementation grant activities may include establishing a tribal Violence Against Indian Women Task Force composed of the tribal justice components; training and education for tribal justice practitioners; creating or revising a violence against Indian women code; developing policies, protocols and procedures for criminal justice components; and developing policies, protocols and procedures for tribal justice components; development of court sanctions, and providing direct services to adult Native women. Technical assistance will be provided to assist grant recipients in implementing their projects.

Application Contents. A fully executed application must include the following:

1. Program Narrative. The Program Narrative, which may not exceed 10 double-spaced typed pages (including the 1-page abstract) using 12 point type and must be printed on one side of 8½ x 11 inch paper, must include the following:

☐ Abstract (not to exceed 1 page) — The abstract should present a summary of the proposed project and how it fits into the tribal government's overall strategy to reduce violent crimes committed against Indian women.

☐ Project description — The project description should not exceed a total of 10 pages and include the following information:

☐ Information about the Tribe (not to exceed 1 page) — Relevant historical information, land base within the jurisdiction of the tribe, number of tribal members and population living within the Indian community, population of women to be served, and demographic characteristics of the women to be served. A description of the problems the tribal government faces with respect to violence against women, specifically domestic violence and sexual assault, and stalking. A description of current law enforcement, prosecution, and victim services efforts to address battering and sexual assault of Indian women that also identifies the current sources of funding and explains how this grant would enhance or build on, rather than duplicate, existing programs.

☐ Description of Proposed Project(s) (not to exceed 6 pages) — A description of the project(s) the tribe intends to support with grant funds. Projects must focus on reducing violence against or enhancing the safety of Indian women. OJP recognizes that the justice system of each tribal government is distinct. Tribes are therefore encouraged to support projects designed to strengthen their specific systems of justice for addressing violent crimes against women through coordination of the tribal justice system and emphasize training and education for tribal justice practitioners on domestic violence and sexual assault; the establishment of minimum training requirements for law enforcement officers, prosecutors and victim advocates; and/or the creation or revision of a domestic violence code.

☐ If a subgrant is proposed, an explanation of how the subgrantee was selected.

☐ A description of the source of the non-Federal match and how it will be used.

A description of the product(s) to be developed by the project (e.g., a tribal code, training materials, protocols, or handbooks), including when they will be submitted to OJP. The type(s) of product(s) developed will depend on the nature of the project. For example, an implementation grant to establish a shelter for battered Indian women might produce a report outlining the step-by-step approach taken to create the shelter and the shelter's operational policies.

☐ Staffing Plan (not to exceed 1 page) — A description of the staffing needs of the proposed project(s), job descriptions outlining the responsibilities of each proposed staff position, and the qualifications that would be required of key staff conducting and managing the proposed project(s), particularly training and experience in addressing or responding to violence against Indian women.

Applicants should carefully consider the resources needed to successfully implement the projects they propose and present a realistic budget that accurately reflects project costs. The proposed projects for FY 1999 should build upon the projects and goals accomplished during the previous project periods.

INFORMATION

Administrative Funds. Tribal governments may use up to 5% of the award amount for costs incurred to administer the grant, including tribal government review, processing, monitoring, progress and financial report review, technical assistance, grant adjustments, accounting, auditing, and fund disbursement to subgrantees. This option is available to tribal grantees only and does not apply to tribal subgrantees. Allowable costs under administrative funds are the same as those for the Program. Tribal governments are not required to match the funds allocated for administration of the grant. If the tribal government does not need 5% of the grant award for administrative purposes, the funds should be used to support project activities. The tribal administrative agency may charge its Federally approved indirect cost rate to this grant. However, any indirect costs requested must be paid from the 5% administrative funds. Neither administrative costs nor indirect costs may be included as part of matching funds. Details on how the administrative funds will be used should be included in the Budget Detail Worksheet included in Appendix B.

Indirect costs are those costs of an organization that are not readily assignable to a particular project, but are necessary to the operation of the organization and the performance of the project. The cost of operating and maintaining facilities, depreciation, and administrative salaries are examples of the types of costs generally treated as indirect costs. An indirect cost rate and cost allocation plan must be on file with or submitted to and approved by the cognizant Federal agency, and a copy must be submitted with the application. The cognizant Federal agency is generally determined based on the preponderance of Federal dollars received by the grantee. For most Indian tribes, the cognizant Federal agency is the Department of the Interior.

Discretionary grant funds are governed by the provisions of the government-wide Common Rule (A-102) and Circulars No. A-87 (Cost Principles for State, Local, and Indian Tribal Governments, revised May 17, 1995); A-102 to Federal Agencies on Grants and Cooperative Agreements (revised March 11, 1988); and A-133 (Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-profit Organizations), as applicable to financial assistance. Additional information and guidance are contained in OJP's Financial Guide. The Financial Guide includes information on allowable costs, methods of payment, audit requirements, accounting systems, and financial records. Copies of the Guide are available from the Department of Justice Response Center (1-800-421-6770) and also through the Internet on the OJP Home Page:

Match

Requirements. A grant made under this Program may not cover more than 75% of the total costs of the project(s) funded. Funds allocated for administration of the grant, conference travel as mandated by the Violence Against Women Grants Office, and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services are not required to be matched under this Program. The application must identify the source of the 25% non-Federal portion of the budget and how the match funds will be used. Tribal governments may satisfy this match requirement with either cash or in-kind services.

The purpose of matching funds is to augment the amount of resources available to the project from grant funds. The costs of activities counted as match must be directly related to the project goals and objectives and should be included as part of any evaluation or assessment. For example, if STOP funds are used to hire a second victim advocate in a prosecutor's office to expand the availability of services to battered women and sexually assaulted women, the time and activities of the original victim advocate may be considered as cash match. Both advocates' time devoted to grant-related activities must be documented in an auditable manner. If half of a prosecutor's time is supported with grant funds, that prosecutor must track ALL of his or her time to demonstrate that 50% of it was devoted to the grant-funded project. In-kind match must be documented in the same manner as grant-funded activities.

Source of Match. The source of the 25% non-Federal portion of the budget is governed by OJP's Financial Guide. The following restrictions on match apply to this Program:

☐ Match cannot be derived from other Federal funds, unless those funds are appropriated by the Congress for the activities of any agency of an Indian tribal government or for the activities of the Bureau of Indian Affairs performing law enforcement functions on any Indian lands (§ 2002(g) of Title IV - Violence Against Women Act). In this case, those Federal funds may be used to provide the matching share of the cost of programs or projects funded.

☐ Match may be passed on to all subgrantees, with the exception of nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs.

In-Kind Match. In-kind match may include donations of expendable equipment; office supplies; workshop or classroom materials; work space; or the monetary value of time contributed by professional and technical personnel and other skilled and unskilled labor, if the services provided are an integral and necessary part of a funded project. The value placed on loaned or donated equipment may not exceed its fair rental value. The value placed on donated services must be consistent with the rate of compensation paid for similar work in the organization or the labor market. Fringe benefits may be included in the valuation. Volunteer services must be documented and, to the extent feasible, supported by the same methods used by the recipient organization for its own employees. The value of donated space may not exceed the fair rental value of comparable space, as established by an independent appraisal of comparable space and facilities in a privately owned building in the same locality. The basis for determining the value of personal services, materials, equipment, and space must be documented.

Sample Match Calculation Allocating 25% to Nonprofit, Nongovernmental Victim Services Providers:

Federal Award Amount	$90,000
(-) Administrative Funds (5 %)	$ 4,500
(-) Travel to Grantee Meetings	$15,000

Adjusted Total Project Costs	$70,500
(×) multiply by 25%	× .25
(=) Required Match	$17,625

Sample Match Calculation Allocating 25% to Tribal Governmental Victim Services Programs:

Award Amount	$90,000
(-) Administrative Funds (5 %)	$ 4,500
(-) Travel to Grantee Meetings	$15,000
(=) Federal Share to be Matched	$70,500
(÷) divide by 75%	÷ .75
(=) Adjusted Total Project Costs	$94,000
(×) multiply by 25%	× .25
(=) Required Match	$23,500

Allocation of Funds. The application must reflect that 25% of the programmatic funds available through the grant will be allocated, without duplication, to each of the following areas: prosecution; law enforcement; and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services. This requirement is not applicable to tribal governments that do not have law enforcement and/or prosecution, as defined previously. Every grantee must spend 25% of its programmatic funds on victim services. The remainder of the funds must be spent to address the purposes of the Program described previously. A specific budget for each of the required 25% program allocations and any proposed subgrants must be included in the application at the time of submission. Administrative funds and travel costs for the OJP-required meetings are not to be included in the 25% allocations to law enforcement, prosecution, and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services.

Indian tribal governments allocating funds to nonprofit subgrantees must fulfill the requirements of OMB Circular A-110, Grants and Agreements with Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and Other Nonprofit Organizations; A-122, Cost Principles For Nonprofit Organizations; and A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-profit Organizations.

In addition to the Budget Detail Worksheet in Appendix B, the application must include a specific budget breakdown of the 25% allocations to the law enforcement; prosecution; nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services; and discretionary funding categories. The breakdown must show:

☐ The exact amount of the programmatic funds being allocated to law enforcement; prosecution; nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services; and discretionary projects. If nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services do not exist within the jurisdiction of the tribal government, the exact amount of the programmatic funds that will be allocated to governmental victim services must be provided.

☐ The exact amount of the match (at least 25%) and the source of the match that will be provided to the law enforcement, prosecution, and discretionary categories. The exact amount of the match and the source of the match to victim services must be provided only if the victim services program is a governmental organization.

PROGRAMMATIC REQUIREMENTS

Participation in Office of Justice Programs Activities. The Office of Justice Programs sponsors activities designed to support the successful implementation of this Program.

❑ Programmatic Training Sessions. Grant recipients must attend specialized training sessions that will be sponsored by the Office of Justice Programs during the grant period. The goal of the training sessions is to assist grantees in the development of their projects and provide a review of the fiscal requirements of the Program. By accepting an award, a tribe commits to participating in training sessions. Grant recipients must allocate travel dollars for this purpose set aside in each grantee category to pay for the costs to attend these training sessions. (See Sample Travel Budget in Appendix B).

❑ New Projects. Three programmatic training sessions will be offered. The first session will provide a review of the programmatic requirements of the grant and information on the appropriate response to domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. The second session will provide assistance to planning grantees that will foster the development of their tribal task force and design the tribe's strategy to coordinate a community response. The third session will showcase the best practices of tribal governments and address specialized topic areas including: the full faith and credit provision of the Violence Against Women Act as it pertains to tribal governments; issues related to the prosecution and judicial management of cases involving violence against Indian women; tribal law enforcement responses to violence against Indian women; and advocacy for victims of such violence. Specific details regarding the programmatic training sessions will be sent to participants when the times and sites for each are confirmed.

❑ Continuation Projects. Two programmatic training sessions will be offered. The first session will provide training on the safety and accountability audit as a guide to assessing institutional responses to domestic violence. The second session will showcase the best practices of tribal governments and address specialized topic areas, including: the full faith and credit provision of the Violence Against Women Act as it pertains to tribal governments; issues related to the prosecution and judicial management of cases involving violence against Indian women; tribal law enforcement responses to violence against Indian women; and advocacy for victims of such violence.

Each grantee is required to send a five-person team to each programmatic training session. The team should include tribal representatives providing services to adult Native women victimized by violent crime or handling cases involving domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking, including tribal law enforcement officers; prosecutors; judges; and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs. Prior to each training session, grant recipients must provide a list of the names and positions of the tribal representatives attending the training to the Violence Against Women Grants Office. The individuals who attend the programmatic training sessions on behalf of their respective tribal governments should be the same individuals responsible for developing and implementing the tribe's implementation plan.

❑ Fiscal Training Session. The Office of Justice Programs' Office of the Comptroller will provide a two-day training session on fiscal issues essential to the financial management of the FY 1999 award. The tribal fiscal officer handling the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Discretionary Grant is required to attend this training session.

Evaluation. An evaluation of the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Program is underway. Tribal grantees must agree to cooperate with this Federally-sponsored evaluation. Evaluators may visit grantee sites to collect data for the evaluation. In addition, each tribal government must conduct its own evaluation or assessment of its project. The purpose of the evaluation will be to assess the impact and effectiveness of the project in developing and strengthening the tribal government's response to violent crimes against Indian women who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking.

ADMINISTRATIVE REQUIREMENTS

Assurances. The application form includes a list of assurances that the applicant must comply with in order to receive Federal funds under this program. It is the responsibility of the recipient of the Federal funds to fully understand and comply with these requirements. Failure to comply may result in the withholding of funds, termination of the award, or other sanctions. This form must be submitted along with your completed application.

Supplanting Prohibition. Federal funds must be used to supplement existing funds for program activities and may not replace (supplant) non-Federal funds which have been appropriated for the same purpose. Potential supplanting will be the subject of monitoring and audit. Violations can result in a range of penalties, including suspension of future funds under this program, suspension or debarment from Federal grants, recoupment of monies provided under this grant, and civil and/or criminal penalties.

Human Subject Testing. The Department of Justice (DOJ) is a signatory to the Federal policy on protection of human subjects of research, the "Common Rule." DOJ's incorporation of the Common Rule is set forth in 28 CFR Part 46 - Protection of Human Subjects, which requires that research involving human subjects be submitted to an independent review board for approval and that informed consent procedures be followed. The policies set forth in 28 CFR Part 46 apply to all research involving human subjects conducted, supported or otherwise subject to regulation by any Federal department or agency that has adopted the Common Rule. Federal funds may not be expended for research involving human subjects unless the requirements of this policy have been satisfied, if the research is not covered by an exemption set forth in 28 CFR section 46.101(b)(1).

The applicant must indicate whether the project or activity in its application includes research which may involve human subjects, as defined in 28 CFR Part 46.

Certification Regarding Lobbying; Debarment, Suspension, and Other Responsibility Matters; and Drug-Free Workplace Requirements. The applicant is required to complete, sign, and include a copy in its application of the Certification Regarding Lobbying, Debarment, Suspension, and Other Responsibility Matters; and Drug Free Workplace Requirements forms. By signing this certification, the applicant agrees to comply with the following requirements:

Lobbying: The applicant and its subgrantees, contractors and subcontracts, will not use Federal funds for lobbying and will disclose any lobbying activities.

Debarment: The applicant and its principals have not been debarred or suspended from Federal benefits and/or no such proceedings have been initiated against them; have not been convicted of, indicted for, or criminally or civilly charged by a government entity for fraud, violation of antitrust statutes, embezzlement, theft, forgery, bribery, falsification or destruction of records, making false statements, or receiving stolen property; and have not had a public transaction terminated for cause or default.

Drug-Free Workplace: The applicant will or will continue to provide a drug-free workplace.

Signing this form commits the applicant to compliance with the certification requirements under 28 CFR Part 69, New Restrictions on Lobbying, and 28 CFR 67, Government-Wide Debarment and Suspension (Non-procurement) and Government-Wide Requirements for Drug Free Workplace (Grants). The certification will be treated as a material representation of the fact upon which reliance will be placed by the US Department of Justice in making awards.

Single Point of Contact Review. Executive Order 12372 requires applicants from State and local units of government or other organizations providing services within a State to submit a copy of the application to the State Single Point of Contact (SPOC), if one exists, and if this program has been selected for review by the State. Applicants must contact their State SPOC to determine if the program has been selected for State review. The date that the application was sent to the SPOC to or the reason such submission is not required should be entered in block 16 on the Application for Federal Assistance, SF-424.

Civil Rights Compliance. All recipients of Federal grant funds are required to comply with nondiscrimination requirements contained in various Federal laws. In the event that a court or administrative agency makes a finding of discrimination on grounds of race, color, religion, national origin, gender, disability, or age against a recipient of funds after a due process hearing, the recipient must agree to forward a copy of the finding to the Office of Civil Rights of the Office of Justice Programs. All applicants should consult the Assurances required with the application funds to understand the applicable legal and administrative requirements.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

☐ Financial Status Report. Financial status reports (SF 269-A) are due quarterly on the 45th day following the end of each calendar quarter. A report must be submitted every quarter the award is active even if there has been no financial activity during the reporting period. The final report is due 120 days after the end date of the award. The Office of the Comptroller will provide a copy of this form in the initial award package. Future awards and fund drawdowns may be withheld if the progress and financial status reports are delinquent.

☐ Single Audit Report. Recipients who expend $300,000 or more of Federal funds during their fiscal year are required to submit an organization-wide financial and compliance audit report. The audit must be performed in accordance with the U.S. General Accounting Office Government Auditing Standards. The audit report is currently due to the cognizant Federal agency or oversight agency not later than 13 months after the end of the recipient's fiscal year. For fiscal years beginning on or after July 1, 1998, the audit report will be due 9 months after the end of the recipient's fiscal year.

☐ Semi-Annual Progress Report. Recipients of funding are required to submit semi-annual progress reports. The progress reports describe activities during the reporting period and the status or accomplishment of objectives as set forth in the approved application for funding. Progress reports must be submitted within 30 days after the end of the reporting periods, which are January 1 through June 30 and July 1 through December 31 for the life of the award. A final report, which provides a summary of progress toward achieving the goals and objectives of the award, significant results, and any products developed under the award, is due 120 days after the end date of the award. Report forms will be provided to the recipient by the Violence Against Women Grants Office.

Suspension or Termination of Funding. The Office of Justice Programs may suspend funding in whole or in part, terminate funding, or impose another sanction on a recipient for the following reasons:

- ☐ Failure to comply substantially with the requirements or statutory objectives of the Violence Against Women Act of 1994, program guidelines issued thereunder, or other provisions of Federal law;
- ☐ Failure to make satisfactory progress toward the goals or strategies set forth in this application;
- ☐ Failure to adhere to the requirements in the agreement, standard conditions, or special conditions;
- ☐ Proposing or implementing substantial plan changes to the extent that, if originally submitted, the application would not have been selected for funding;
- ☐ Filing a false certification in this application or other report or document; or ☐ Other good cause shown.

Before imposing sanctions, the Office of Justice Programs will provide reasonable notice to the recipient of its intent to impose sanctions and will attempt informally to resolve the problem. Hearing and appeal procedures will follow those in Department of Justice regulations described in 28 CFR, part 18.

Instructions for Completion of the Application for Federal Assistance (SF 424)

The Application for Federal Assistance is a standard form used by most federal agencies. This form contains 18 different items which are to be completed before submission. All applications should include a completed and signed SF 424.

Item	Instructions
1	Type of Submission: If this proposal is not for construction or building purposes, check the "Non-Construction" box in the application section.
2	Date Submitted: Indicate the date you sent the application to OJP. The "Application Identifier" is the number assigned by your jurisdiction, if any, to track applications. If your jurisdiction does not assign an identifier number, leave this space blank.
3	Date Received by State: Leave blank. This item is completed by the State single point of contact, if applicable.
4	Date Received by Federal Agency: Leave blank. This item will be completed by OJP.
5	Applicant Information: The "Legal Name" is the unit of government of the parent organization. For example, the primary or parent organization of a law enforcement agency is the name of the city or township. Thus the city or township should be entered into the Legal Name box and the name of the law enforcement agency would be entered into the Organizational Unit box. Designate one person as the contact and include their telephone number. It is not unusual for the name of the contact person to differ from the authorized representative in Item 18 below.
6	Employer Identification Number: Each employer receives an employer identification number from the Internal Revenue Service. Generally, this number can be easily obtained from your agency's accountant or comptroller.
7	Type of Applicant: Enter the appropriate letter in this space. If the applicant is representing a consortium of agencies, specify by checking Block N and entering "consortium".
8	Type of Application: Check either "new" or "continuation". Check "new", if this will be your first award for the purpose described in the application, even if the applicant has received prior awards for other purposes. Check "continuation", if the project will continue activities of a project, including minor modifications, or implement the next phase of a project that was begun under a prior award.
9	Name of Federal Agency: Type in the name of the awarding agency, "[insert agency name]"
10	Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Number: This would be contained in the program announcement. The number for this program would be 16.587.
11	Descriptive Title of Applicant's Project: Type in the: (1) title of the program as it appears in the solicitation or announcement; (2) name of the cognizant Federal agency, ex. U.S. Department of Education; and (3) applicant's fiscal year, i.e. twelve month audit period, ex. 10/1/97 - 9/30/98.
12	Areas Affected by Project: Identify the geographic area(s) of the project. Indicate "Statewide" or "National", if applicable.
13	Proposed Project Dates: Fill in the proposed begin and end dates of the project. These dates may be adjusted by the Office of Justice Programs when the award is made.
14	Congressional Districts: Fill in the Congressional Districts in which the project will be located as well as the Congressional District(s) the project will serve. Indicate "Statewide" or "National", if applicable.
15	Estimated Funding: In line "a", enter the Federal funds requested, not to exceed the dollar amount allocated in the program announcement. Indicate any other resources that will be available to the project and the source of those funds on lines "b-f," as appropriate.
16	State Executive Order 12372: Some states require you to submit your application to a State "Single Point of Contact" (SPOC) to coordinate applications for Federal funds within the state. If your State requires a copy of your application, indicate the date submitted. If a copy is not required, indicate the reason. (Refer to the "Administrative Requirements" section of the program announcement, for more information.) The SPOC is not responsible for forwarding your application to the Federal awarding agency.
17	Delinquent Federal Debt: This question applies to the applicant organization. Categories of debt include delinquent audit allowances, loans, and taxes.
18	Authorized Representative: Type in the name of the person legally authorized to enter into agreements on behalf of your agency. The signature on the original application must be signed in blue ink and/or stamped as "original" to help distinguish the original from the photocopies.

Applicants should also review the instructions for certification included in the regulations before completing this form. Signature on this form provides for compliance with certification requirements under 28 CFR Part 90, "Rape Exam Payment Requirement" and "Filing Costs for Criminal Charges." The certifications shall be treated as a material representation of fact upon which the Department of Justice will rely when it determines to award the covered transaction, grant, or cooperative agreement.

Any Indian Tribal Government will be qualified for funds under the Violence Against Women Act, based on Section 2002(b)(1), upon certification that:

- 3) at least 25 percent of the amount granted will be allocated, without duplication, to each of the following three (3) areas: prosecution, law enforcement, and victim services, as these terms are defined in the Regulations. Indian tribal governments which do not have law enforcement authority are not subject to the requirement that 25% of the total grant award be allocated to law enforcement and 25% to prosecution; and

L. 103-322 (September 13, 1994), which, in part, amends the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, 42 U.S.C. § 3711 et seq. [by adding a new 'Part T'. b) An Indian tribal government will be deemed to incur the full out-of-pocket cost of forensic medical examinations for victims of sexual assault if the Indian tribal government or other governmental entity:

- 1) provides such examinations to victims free of charge;
- 2) arranges for victims to obtain such examinations free of charge; or
- 3) reimburses victims for the cost of such examinations if:
 - i) the reimbursement covers the full cost of such examinations, without any deductible requirement or limit on the amount of reimbursement;

ii) the governmental entity permits victims to apply for reimbursement for not less than one year from the date of the examination;

iii) the governmental entity provides reimbursement not later than ninety (90) days after written notification of the victim's expense; and
